

DECHEMA Membership

Are you interested in technological advances in the areas of chemical apparatus, chemical technology, environmental protection, and biotechnology? If so, you have every reason to become a member of DECHEMA.

Your advantages

- First-hand information about technical and scientific events and seminars for continuing education
- Exchange of ideas and experience at conferences, symposia, and colloquia
- Contact with important representatives of your subject area
- Regular information on your field of interest in "DECHEMA aktuell" – our bi-monthly newsletter for all members, via our regular newsletters and social media
- Reduced entry fees for ACHEMA and other events
- Reduced entry fees to the activities of friendly organisations

Who can become a member?

Anyone interested in chemical engineering, environmental protection, and biotechnology may become member: Experts from science, business, authorities as well as students as personal members. Companies, institutes and public-law institutions as sustaining members.

Please note that many of our activities (events, publications etc) are in English. However, some of our regular communications and publications are only published in German.

Membership Fee

Please send the completed membership application to mitglieder@dechema.de.